note for [redacted]

SUBJECT: Separation Allowance

1. Here is new information on a case on which we have already ruled and also a new case which [redacted] brought up. I am inclined to think that [redacted] medical treatment in difficult case is pretty poor, and we may have valid grounds for a separation allowance in one or both of these cases.

2. Would you check whether approval of medical doctors and clinics has been withdrawn, as stated in the [redacted] case, and also see if we can get a check through [redacted] or directly, if he concurs, from Public Health on [redacted] medical reputation.

3. I think we can think generally in this connection that a man does not leave his wife and children behind when going to a comparatively safe country as [redacted] without an extremely good reason.
